

Theme Selected By Project Options

This project selects its theme through project options rather than a document header, and the theme lives in a SUBDIRECTORY. That combination is what broke: the selection is stored as a project-relative path, and the theme directory is derived from that same path, so a renderer that used the raw stored value resolved `branding/branding/corporate-theme.yml`, found nothing, and silently fell back to the built-in theme.

A section

Every visible property below comes from the theme. If the theme is not applied, this document renders in the default face and colours and the comparison fails.

TIP | An admonition, whose rule colour the theme overrides.